About Parul University

A multi-disciplinary destination of learning and innovation, Parul University, situated in Vadodara, Gujarat, holds the distinction of being India's youngest private university to receive NAAC A++ accreditation (CGPA 3.55) in its first assessment cycle. Established in 2015, with institutional roots dating back to 1993, the University blends India's rich cultural heritage with modern educational practices, research, and technological advancement. Recognised as a UGC Category 1 University with Graded Autonomy and a *Centre of Excellence by the Government of Gujarat, it offers over 200 academic programmes across diverse disciplines.

With a vibrant academic community of over 70,500 students, including more than 6,000 international students from over 75 countries, the University fosters a globally inclusive learning environment. Its 250-acre campus, industry-integrated programmes, advanced research infrastructure, international collaborations, startup incubation initiatives, and network of over 2,200 recruiters contribute to academic excellence and professional development.

Parul University has earned significant national and international recognition, ranking among the Top 50 institutions for Innovation, 41st in Pharmacy, and within the 101–150 University ranking band under NIRF 2025. It has also received the QS I-GAUGE Diamond Rating and secured a position in the QS Asia University Rankings 2026. With over ₹50 crore in external research funding, 545 patent filings, 10,000+ scientific publications, and more than 120 global academic collaborations, the University continues to advance interdisciplinary research, innovation, entrepreneurship, and sustainable societal development.

About Scope

SCOPE (Scientific Communication, Outreach & Public Engagement) at Parul University is an interdisciplinary initiative advancing scientific research, innovation, global collaboration and societal impact. Built on five pillars—Scientific Research & Innovation, Scientific Communication, Global Collaboration, Capacity Building, and Community Engagement—SCOPE bridges scientific discoveries with real-world applications. Its expanding ecosystem includes the Mind Lab, Sensor Development Lab, developing Neuro-Aging Lab, Ekagrata Centre for Mindfulness & Behavioural Studies, and Centre for Evidence-Based Policing & Social Innovation (CEBPSI). Through its international Mentor–Mentee (M^2) Programme, SCOPE promotes interdisciplinary research, scientific outreach and knowledge exchange.

Aligned with the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs 3, 4, 9, 11, 16 and 17), SCOPE integrates neuroscience, mental health, behavioural sciences, artificial intelligence, advanced technologies, sustainability and social innovation. Inspired by MIT D-Lab's human-centred, participatory innovation approach, it encourages community-driven solutions, responsible research and sustainable development. Supporting BLAIM 2.0's vision of sustainable, just and human-centred futures, SCOPE strives to transform scientific knowledge into meaningful innovation, evidence-based policies, resilient institutions and measurable societal impact through collaborative research and public engagement.

SCOPE

Center of Evidence Based Policing & Social Innovation

The Centre for Evidence-Based Policing and Social Innovation (CEBPSI) at Parul University is an interdisciplinary research and policy innovation initiative developed in collaboration with the Vadodara Police Commissionerate to bridge academic research, policing practice, and community engagement. Drawing inspiration from internationally recognised approaches advanced by the Cambridge Centre for Evidence-Based Policing, the Center for Problem-Oriented Policing at Arizona State University, and the George Mason University Center for Evidence-Based Crime Policy, CEBPSI seeks to translate scientific evidence into ethical, effective, and socially responsive policing practices.

Integrating Parul University's research strengths in Criminology, Law, Behavioural Sciences, Psychology, Artificial Intelligence, Data Analytics, Forensic Sciences, and Social Innovation, the Centre focuses on crime prevention, police–community trust, victim-centred justice, cybercrime, officer mental well-being, and responsible technological innovation. Through collaborative field research, community safety assessments, capacity-building programmes, policy dialogues, and evidence-informed interventions, CEBPSI aims to develop context-sensitive solutions for contemporary challenges in policing and governance.

Aligned with BLAIM 2.0's vision of sustainable, just, and human-centred futures, the Centre aspires to become a nationally significant platform for police–academia–community collaboration, contributing to SDG 16 (Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions) and advancing inclusive, accountable, and research-driven public safety.

About BLAIM-2.0

The BLAIM 2027 International Conference is a multidisciplinary platform bringing together distinguished scholars, researchers, policymakers, practitioners, and change makers from across the globe. The conference explores the intersections of mindfulness, behavioural science, psychology, criminology, social and criminal justice, legal innovation, and emerging technologies, particularly artificial intelligence (AI), fostering academic dialogue, knowledge exchange, and international collaboration.

Centred on the theme "Gen Z for Sustainable, Just and Human-Centred Futures," the conference examines the role of younger generations in shaping contemporary social, technological, and institutional landscapes. It addresses key areas including mental health and psychological resilience, human rights, youth leadership, digital governance, AI accountability, social inclusion, and sustainable innovation.

Organised by Scientific Communication, Outreach and Public Engagement (SCOPE), Parul University, in association with the Faculty of Law, Faculty of Ayurved, Faculty of Pharmacy, and Faculty of Medicine, the conference reflects a commitment to interdisciplinary research and human-centred development.

Through keynote addresses, expert discussions, research presentations, and workshops, BLAIM 2027 aims to promote scholarly collaboration, innovative thinking, and practical approaches to contemporary societal challenges, contributing to a more inclusive, equitable, and sustainable future.

Aim

BLAIM 2027 aims to foster interdisciplinary dialogue integrating mindfulness, behavioural science, legal innovation, social and criminal justice, and emerging technologies to address contemporary societal challenges. The conference seeks to bridge individual awareness and institutional transformation by promoting psychological well-being, ethical leadership, evidence-based research, and human-centred governance. Particular emphasis is placed on responsible artificial intelligence, inclusive policymaking, youth participation, and sustainable development. Aligned with the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), the conference aspires to encourage scholarly collaboration, practical innovation, and meaningful societal change.

Rationale

Rapid technological advancement, changing behavioural patterns, mental health concerns, social inequalities, and declining institutional trust present increasingly complex challenges that extend beyond traditional disciplinary boundaries. The growing influence of artificial intelligence on social interactions, governance, and criminal justice further raises concerns regarding ethics, accountability, privacy, and human rights.BLAIM 2027 responds to these challenges by bringing together behavioural, psychological, legal, and technological perspectives to develop integrated and evidence-informed solutions. Recognising the evolving role of Generation Z in shaping digital culture, social values, and institutional expectations, the conference encourages innovative approaches to leadership, justice, education, and public service, contributing to a more equitable, resilient, and sustainable future.

Guidelines for Abstract Submission

Abstracts must be submitted on or before 1st November 2026. Abstracts submitted after this date will be rejected directly without any reviews.

1. Abstracts must be submitted online via the link provided below.
2. The submission must include a title, abstract, keywords and author information
3. Abstracts should be structured and concise, typically containing objectives, methods, results, and conclusions. Although not all abstracts will conform to this format, they should all contain enough information to frame the problem and orient the conclusions.
4. The abstract should be at least 200 words but not exceed 300 words.
5. The abstract submitted can only have a maximum of three authors.
6. The authors will receive the abstract review result on or before 10th December 2026.
7. Please ensure that the submitted abstracts are original works and have not been previously published or presented elsewhere.
8. Please refrain from submitting papers that are purely descriptive or merely provide an overview of a topic. Originality is highly valued, so avoid any form of plagiarism in your abstract

BLAIM 2.0 Fellowship

BLAIM 2.0 2027 is pleased to announce fellowships for 15 dedicated full-time student participants, including undergraduate (UG) students, postgraduate (PG) students, and Ph.D./Research scholars, attending our upcoming conference. This initiative aims to support participants facing financial constraints, enabling them to engage fully in the conference without financial burden.

The fellowship will cover the full conference fees and provide shared accommodation for three nights for conference only participants and 5 nights for both pre-conference workshop and conference participants. A total of 15 fellowships are available, five each under each of the categories; undergraduate (UG) students, postgraduate (PG) students, and Ph.D./Research scholars.

This fellowship is designed to motivate student participants, enhance their academic knowledge, and provide an invaluable opportunity to participate in a vibrant scholarly environment.
